WHAT DOES CAMBRIDGE SAVINGS BANK (CSB) DO WITH YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION?

Why?

Financial companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share, and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

What?

The types of personal information we collect and share depends on the product or service you have with us. This information can include:

- Social Security number and income
- account balances and payment history
- credit history and credit score
- When you are no longer our customer, we may continue to share your information as described in this notice.

How?

All financial companies need to share customers' personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customers' personal information; the reasons CSB chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.

What we do

How does CSB protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings. We restrict access to your personal account information to those employees who need to know that information to provide products and services to you.

How does CSB collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you

- open an account or deposit money
- apply for a loan or pay your bills
- seek advice about your investments

We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only

- sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for non-affiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing.

Definitions

Affiliates

Companies related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.

Nonaffiliates

Companies not related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.

- CSB does not share with non-affiliates other than in connection with joint marketing agreements as described below.

Joint marketing agreement

A formal agreement between nonaffiliated financial companies that together market financial products or services to you.

- We may enter into joint marketing agreements to offer you products and services that we do not otherwise provide independently on our own, such as credit cards, insurance, and non-deposit investment products and services.
